“Chamber of Deputies”

Place du Palais Bourbon, Paris, France—August 25th, 1944

At long last the liberation of Paris had begun. Germans resisted in isolated pockets throughout the city. The French Resistance, the FFI had initiated the attacks on the various German positions. But by the 24th of August, the Free French 2nd Armored Division had arrived in the city. On August 25th, the 9th Company launched an as-sault on one of the last remaining German strongpoints at the Chamber of Deputies.

VICTORY CONDITIONS: The Free French Player wins immediately if there are no good order German MMC’s in the J3 building. Any other result is a German victory.

45

Board Configuration:
Board 45

Free French Player sets up first	1	2	3	4	5	6
German Player moves first

Elements of 2e Division Blindée or 2e DB (ELR 5) (SAN 4) (Set up: on/east of row T)

12 2 3 2 2 2

Régiment Blindé de Fusiliers-Marins (RBFM) (Set up: enter Turn 3 on the east edge)

3

Elements of the 77th Infantry Division (ELR 2) (SAN 3) (Set up: west of row M & per SSR’s 2, 3, & 4)

7 2 2 2 7

Special Rules/Notes:

1. EC are moderate with no wind. Kindling is N.A2. No Quarter (A20.3) is NA.
2. The German Player must place the Wire counters in Hex Row O.
3. The German AA Guns must set up adjacent to the building.
4. The German 8-1 must set up in the J3 Building and may not move from the building. Should the German 8-1 be KIA’d or forced to rout from the building, all Good Order German units (Exception Crews) must take an NMC. Units failing the NMC will immediately ELR & Conscript MMC’s will immediately surrender.

Aftermath: Initially, the German defenders put up fierce resistance. In addition to the Free French troops, members of the FFI also inflicted losses on the Germans as their snipers fired from rooftops and windows facing the Chamber of Deputies. As the battle wore on, the French brought up M10’s from the Tank Destroyer Company. With the appearance of the M10’s, the Germans asked for a truce to discuss surrender. Tense negotiations ensued as the Germans feared that they would be shot out of hand. Satisfied that they would not be summarily executed, the German garrison surrendered.

GRUMBLE JONES BLOG

Scenario GJ026